Built around 1270 by Count Philippe de Vianden, the castle in Corroy-le-Château offers guided tours presenting its precious furniture as well as its decorative and architectural heritage. This site is one of the finest examples of princely medieval architecture in Wallonia.

The Marquis de Trazegnies, descendants of the architect and heirs to the Orbais, Brabant, Vianden, Sponheim, Bavière and Nassau families, now live there. It was always passed down by direct affiliation, never once sold.

Your visit

This pentagonal-shaped property, with its 4 corner towers, features stunning interiors from the XVIII and XIXth century as well as many art works of art.

The decors of the great hall and the chapel, notably, blend rare marble with decorative paintings.
