Liège's Public Transport Museum invites you to (re)discover the vehicles of the past. A real journey through time!

Set in a former tramway depot, around 40 vehicles, such as horse-drawn carriages, trams and trolley buses, all retrace the history of transport from the 18th century to the present day.

You will be astonished by the variety of the collections on display, from horse-drawn carriages to electric tramways and buses, all used between 1875 to now. There also is a rich collection of historical objects, uniforms, scale models and iconographic documents to see.
