To cross from one bank to another in Walsort, you can use a ferry. Not any ferry, the very last traditional cable ferry on the Meuse! A trade that started in 1871...

The flat bottom boat is guided by cables connected to both shores. The boatman pulls it with one arm or the other depending on the direction he is going.

A real journey through time. The service is free and takes no more than 10 mn.

Outside the functioning times, you can cross the Meuse (walking or cycling) at the Waulsort dam, 500 metres upstream.
