Situated in the former Villa Royale, residence of the second queen of the Belgian Marie Henriette, the Museum of the City of Waters unveils the history of Spa, another is dedicated to horses.

A museum dedicated to Spa water

This permanent exhibition presents how Spa became the cradle of balneology through archive documents, videos and collections, among which:

- a magnificent collection of "Jolités" or Bois de Spa, featuring pieces from the seventeenth century to the present day
- vintage posters, engravings and various objects evoking the activity of the oldest spa town in Europe.

Another dedicated to horses

A fantastic insight into Spa's equestrian past through historical objects. Children too will enjoy the visit thanks to a discovery game designed just for them.

Families can also join the many activities along the year.
